

BPL is about the single worst idea I've heard in decades. A 2 - 80 Mhz signal on multiple "antennas" (power lines) is going to create so much interference to other licensed services that the only thing the FCC will be doing for years is answering complaints. One of them will probably have my name on it.